

by Mick Forgey

View Author Profile

Join the Conversation

May 31, 2019

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Our team of copy editors reads and posts most of what you see on the websites for National Catholic Reporter and Global Sisters Report (the NCR project focusing on women religious). The Copy Desk Daily highlights recommended news and opinion articles that have crossed our desks on their way to you.

"The commitment is, 'I won't leave you.' We are walking each other home." Heather Adams reports from Los Angeles: California initiative aims to transform care for dying

Read letters to the editor in response to NCR's recent editorial, "Extremist attitudes on abortion get us nowhere."

Robert Mueller's statement and the injustice that won't go away: "The Russian government's interference in the election violated the right to self-determination of the American people," writes David DeCosse. "The Trump campaign's eager embrace of that interference made the campaign both indifferent to and complicit in this profound political injustice."

For years, Michael Sean Winters held Sen. Lindsey Graham in high esteem, despite disagreeing with Graham on many issues. Then came Donald Trump.

I've been watching "Fleabag" on Amazon. It's a funny, raunchy rollercoaster about being human. Tom Reese takes issue with a character from Season 2. Heed his spoiler warning; Reese gives away the central plots of both seasons, but this is a solid follow-up piece once you've finished the show.

Advertisement

*Want to keep updated with the latest news from the National Catholic Reporter?
Sign up here for news updates by email — including one that will send you Copy Desk Daily every Monday through Friday.*