

by Teresa Malcolm

View Author Profile

Join the Conversation

September 10, 2019

Share on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Our team of copy editors reads and posts most of what you see on the websites for National Catholic Reporter and Global Sisters Report (the NCR project focusing on women religious). The Copy Desk Daily highlights recommended news and opinion articles that have crossed our desks on their way to you.

In Hawaii, Mauna Kea 'protectors' fight telescope project with prayer. The activists, who call themselves kia'i, are trying to stop construction of the Thirty Meter Telescope, partly for environmental reasons, but their motivation is also unapologetically religious, defending a mountain that Native Hawaiians consider sacred.

Did you know that the image on Pope Francis' pectoral cross is that of Jesus as a shepherd? Sr. Laura Hammel meditates on the protection of the Good Shepherd and the comfort of this Christian symbol in times of fear and vulnerability.

Calling Sen. Mitch McConnell on gun control: Is anybody there? Does anybody care? A Kentucky contributor addresses his senator.

ICYMI: Pope urges Mauritius, island tax haven, to reject 'idolatrous economic model.' Keep updated on Joshua McElwee's reporting from Francis' three-nation visit to Africa.

Advertisement

Want to keep updated with the latest news from the National Catholic Reporter? Sign up here for news updates by email — including one that will send you Copy Desk Daily every Monday through Friday.